FAVORABLE CROP REPORTS FROM ALL PARTS OF WEST

Weather has been Favorable for Past Week in the three Provinces. Live Stock situation in Alberta is good. Most of the Wheat headed out, and the Oats and Barley are doing well.

(Special to The Times)
Winnipeg, July 12.—During the past week, showers have fallen over the west in many sections, the heaviest being in Manitoba, according to the weekly crop report of the Canadian Pacific railway, issued today. Prior to the rains, extremely warm weather prevailed and ripening of the crop was prematurely hastened, but the cooler weather of the past few days is just what is now required. Prospects continue favorable almost everywhere, and unless some unforeseen developments take place, there should be a good all round crop in the west this year. Damage from insect pests and from hail has been very slight. Rapid progress is now being made in the growing of the crops. The crop of healthy and white in some sections the straw is short, the heads are showing up well. Much breaking is being done and the land is turning over better than for several years past. Summer fallowing is well advanced and being well done. Labor at present appears to be plentiful.

All parts of the province of Manitoba received rain of several hours during the past week. Fortunately the heat wave was accompanied by very little wind. Wheat, corn and soybeans, is headed out and about one week earlier than last year. Oats and barley are coming along well. It is too early yet to predict yield on account of possibility of hot winds, but it is safe to say that the prospects in this province are probably a little better than the average. Crops have suffered no injury except in small areas.

Generally speaking, conditions in Saskatchewan continue good. Given favorable weather a harvest up to the average seems probable. Wheat, corn and soybeans, is headed out and about one week earlier than last year. Oats and barley are coming along well. It is too early yet to predict yield on account of possibility of hot winds, but it is safe to say that the prospects in this province are probably a little better than the average. Crops have suffered no injury except in small areas.

Weather over the whole of the province of Alberta during the week has been favorable and crop conditions over the northern and central portions beyond general expectations, and while a little later than the average year, the color is good. Some is on the short side and is well streaked out. In parts of the southwest due to drought and wind conditions earlier in the season, grain is in different stages of growth, some being between two and three weeks behind and headed out, while in other parts it is only from six to eight inches high. Scattered points state more rain required. Livestock situation is good, hogs particularly being in demand and bringing good prices. The sheep industry also is popular, many new farmers going into this line and others increasing their flocks.

Weather has been generally hot and dry in British Columbia. Fruit trees are all doing well and thinning of apples about over. Peas, where present, are well under control. Rasp-

VISITING ORIENT AND AUSTRALIA

H. W. Wood, chairman of the board of trustees of the Alberta wheat pool, and president of the U.F.A., is leaving for the Orient by the Empress of Asia, which will leave on July 22, after which he will visit Australia. The object of his mission is to study trade conditions in China and Japan, while his visit to Australia is in connection with the wheat pool business. He will be accompanied by George McArthur, sales manager of the wheat pool, and in Australia he will be joined by S. W. Robertson, secretary of the Saskatchewan board, and Colin Burnett, the president of the Manitoba pool. Mr. Wood expects to be away for about four months.

WETASKIWIN WINS BALL TOURNAMENT AT NEW NORWAY

The Wetaskiwin baseball team participated in the baseball tournament which was held in connection with the New Norway sports and celebration on July 12th, and carried off first money. Four teams entered the tournament and three good games were played. In the forenoon, Edberg won from Duhamel in a very closely contested encounter.

In the first round, Wetaskiwin was drawn against Bawlf, and had little difficulty in defeating their opponents by 5-1. The line-up of the players was:

Bawlf—Silverwood, 3b; Tibbitt 2b; Olstad, 1b; C. Olstad, p; Malsed; Johnson ss; Atkins rf; B. Olstad c; Westerburg, cf.

Wetaskiwin—Cowan, 3b; W. Reckie, 1b; N. Doupe rf; Ryan 1b; J. Doupe cf; Craig, c; Ross 2b; R. Reckie pf; Johnson p.

The final game between Wetaskiwin and Edberg was quite exciting and many good plays were pulled off. The final score was 7-5 in favor of the home team. The players were: Edberg—Curing 3b; Hustal 2b; Atkin rf; Tollock ss; Cantoluc c; Johnson cf; Hagen rf; Albers 1b; Olstad p.

Wetaskiwin—Cowan, 3b; W. Reckie, 1b; N. Doupe rf; Ryan 1b; J. Doupe cf; Craig, c; Ross 2b; Haddon ss; Johnson p.

STIRRING OF LIFE IN FEDERAL POLITICAL CAMPS OF ALBERTA

Through the smoke of battle that remains from the provincial election fight there now loom up certain political possibilities for the coming general election. Gossip from Edmonton indicates that Mayor Blatchford may be a candidate in East Edmonton, opposing A. U. G. Bury, the Conservative member, who holds that seat.

Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of the interior in the King government, will run in West Edmonton, and he may be opposed by Percy W. Abbott, Conservative.

Alberta seats are at present held as follows: Acadia—Robert Gardner, Prog. Athabasca—C. W. Cross, Liberal Battle River—E. E. Spencer, Prog. Bow River—E. J. Garbutt, Prog. Calgary East—F. Davis, Cons. Calgary West—R. B. Bennett, Cons. Camrose—W. T. Lucas, Prog. Edmonton East—A. U. G. Bury, Cons. Edmonton West—Hon. Chas. Stewart, Liberal Lethbridge—L. H. Joffe, Prog. Macleod—G. Coote, Prog. Medicine Hat—F. W. Gershaw, Lib. Peace River—D. M. Kennedy, Prog. Red Deer—A. Speakman, Prog. Vegreville—A. M. Boutillier, Prog. Wetaskiwin—S. G. Tobin, Liberal.

Of the 16 Alberta seats, it will be seen that the Progressives hold nine, Liberals four and Conservatives three. The total vote in the province was approximately as follows: Progressives 50,000; Conservatives, 16,000; Liberals, 44,000.

SCHOOL BOARD REDUCES STAFF

At the meeting of the public school board held on Thursday evening last, it was decided to reduce the number of teachers on the high school staff from five to four.

The resignation of Miss Lola Mabey, teacher of grade four was accepted by Miss Vera Lawson, who has been on the staff of the Stettler school for some time, was engaged as her successor.

HUGE WHITEFISH AT LAC STE. ANNE

There is very little commercial fishing being done in the northern part of the province at present, reports R. T. Rodd, inspector of fisheries, owing to the fact that the middle west market has recently been flooded with catches from the Manitoba fisheries, which are generally very active at this season of the year. Their nearness to markets gives them an advantage over the local fisheries.

A notable exception is Lac Ste. Anne, where good catches of "jumbo" whitefish are being made at present, some of them going as high as 18 pounds, dressed. These fish command a premium with the trade owing to the fact that restaurants and hotel kitchens are willing to pay more for this type. The term "jumbo" is applied in the trade to all fish scaling over four pounds dressed.

DISTRICT EXHIBIT FROM WETASKIWIN IS PRIZE WINNER

The Wetaskiwin district has again been brought into the limelight by being in the prize winning class at the Edmonton Exhibition. It was only a few days before the entries closed that Wetaskiwin decided to enter an exhibit, so it is only fair to state that the entry was perhaps not as good as it would have been had more time been taken in its preparation. Wetaskiwin was awarded third prize, with 226 points out of a possible 350.

WEDDINGS

HARRIS - SCHNEE

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Schnee was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Thursday last week when their eldest daughter, Ann Marie, was united in marriage with Mr. Roy Harris, the Rev. C. Thies officiating. The room in which the ceremony took place was richly and beautifully decorated with a variety of flowers, while the bride bore a pretty bouquet of roses. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Charlotte Schnee, and the groom was assisted by his brother, W. E. Harris. Immediately after the ceremony, a sumptuous wedding dinner was served to which a number of relatives and friends of the young couple sat down. After a few hours which seemed all too short, the happy couple set out on their honeymoon. They are returning through to Calgary and Banff, thence to Yellowstone national park and other points of interest. They expect to be gone about six weeks, after which they will return home to their friends at their new home east of the city.

The bride is a very charming young lady and she and the groom have made a large number of friends, who all join in wishing them joy and many happy days for the future.

ARTIC KILLER FREED, VICTIM WAS DISLIKED

Edmonton, July 12.—After travelling to Aklatvik and back—4,600 miles—to meet out justice in the "Land of the Midnight Sun," Judge Lucien Dubuc and judicial party returned to the city last week. Judge Dubuc's docket consisted of a murder trial, manslaughter trial and a criminal assault case. The first two cases were tried at Aklatvik and the last at Port Providence.

Ikayna, an Eskimo of Coronation Gulf, was charged with the murder of Ulukak, a wealthy countryman, who indulged in the Arctic luxury of marrying three wives. This proceeding resulted in a shortage of wives, and Ikayna became violently jealous and murdered Ulukak. Accused was acquitted by a jury of local countrymen. Ulukak was reported as being unpopular in his neighborhood on account of his affluence and abundance of "congenial" another Eskimo, was originally arraigned on a charge of murdering a native Eskimo, but the charge was reduced to manslaughter. Accused pleaded guilty, but claimed the affair was an accident. He was sentenced to one year's imprisonment at Herschel Island.

Jack Stamp, a treaty Indian, was arraigned at Fort Providence on a charge of criminal assault and on being found guilty was sentenced to two years at Stony Mountain penitentiary. He will arrive by the next boat.

J. B. Howatt, J.C., conducted the prosecutions and C. G. O'Connor defended.

Judge Dubuc reported a pleasant trip with no untoward incidents. The entire journey occupied 32 days, three of which were spent in Aklatvik.

C.P.R. IS ERECTING NEW COAL CHUTE

The C.P.R. is taking another step towards making Wetaskiwin a railway centre of importance by the erection of a large coal chute. Work was commenced a few days ago, and the location of the new coal chute is just north of the water tank. We understand the chute will be large enough to hold about four cars of coal.

Out of Season

To avoid slipping on icy sidewalks, put a strip of adhesive tape across the toe and heel of your rubbers before going out.

If you wash your phonograph records with soap and water and rinse with clear water, then dry thoroughly, they will sound clearer.

BAD FOREST FIRES ARE BURNING IN ALBERTA AND B.C.

Calgary, July 13.—Dry hot weather in northern Alberta and in the railway belt in interior British Columbia has caused a severe fire hazard and forest fires are burning in several districts in both provinces, an unusually large number of fires have started from lightning.

In northern Alberta the Edmonton district reports a fire on Slave reserve and a fire on Camp Creek. The hazard is described as very dangerous.

Kamloops district in the railway belt reports to the forestry headquarters in Calgary there are four spot fires, six fires up to ten acres in extent, and three large fires, all of which are under control.

Revelstoke district reports a bad fire on the northern boundary of the Revelstoke national park and a number of spot fires, most of which were started by lightning. One electrical storm is known to have started three fires.

The Salmon Arm district reports nine fires started by lightning all of which are under control.

South of the Edmonton district the Alberta reserves are clear of fire.

ALBERTA DAIRY PRODUCTS WIN HIGH AWARDS

Central Alberta cheese factories showed up well with their products when awards were made in the dairy section at Edmonton on Tuesday, practically repeating their last week's record of winnings at Calgary. In the class for one seventy-pound cheese made in the current season, first went to the P. Burns factory at Leduc, second to the Burns plant at Bawlf, third to the Glen Park factory at Bawlf, fourth to Burns at Branderburg, and fifth to Burns at New Norway.

The Buford factory took first in the class for the factory flats or altitudes made in the current season, with second to Burns at Bawlf, third to Burns at Branderburg, fourth to Burns at Leduc, and fifth to Burns at New Norway.

Manitoba creameries carried off a heavy share of prizes in the creamery butter section. First prize awards for 14 pounds of May packed butter went to St. Boniface creamery, P. Burns of Westlock and the Yorkton creameries. In the second prizes exhibits from Burns at Millet, Burns at Stettler and Central Creameries, Rocky Mountain House are among the awards. Among third prizes appear entries from Edmonton Pure Butter and Chalmers creamery, the Sedge-Wick creamery and the Central creamery, Eckville.

For 14 pounds of butter packed in June, first goes to the St. Boniface creamery with Burns plants at Millet and Westlock well up in the list. First award for class for 14 pounds solid pack goes to Manitoba cooperative creamery of Winnipeg, with Belmont creamery, the City creamery, Winnipeg, the Holland creamery, the Riverton creamery, P. Burns & Co., Edmonton, Edmonton Pure Butter Co., and the St. Boniface creamery in the order named—Journal.

GOOD PROGRESS AT WATER WELL

The workmen who are excavating the new water well are now making very good progress, and the well is now about seventy feet deep. At the present rate, the full depth of ninety feet will be reached in a few days, when it is expected that a good flow of water will be struck. The well is sixteen feet in diameter, and if it is deemed advisable to go deeper than ninety feet, the diameter will be reduced to twelve feet.

THREE CAMROSE TEACHERS RESIGN

Camrose, July 12.—A. C. Collier, B.A., principal of the Camrose high school, has resigned that position to join the staff of the South Calgary high school. Mr. Collier has been at the head of the Camrose school since 1922.

Miss E. Padilla, also of the same staff, is leaving for the United States and Mrs. B. Tupper will return to Edmonton. The departments in mathematics, science and French will thus be vacant until the school board makes new appointments.

EVERY BUILDING ON FARM FLUNG OVER BY A GALE

Tofield, July 10.—At about nine o'clock Tuesday evening a cyclone visited the Dadds district, about ten miles southwest of this town, doing considerable damage on the farm of J. K. Lehman. This storm was also felt all across the town and the electric storm which struck the town and was the cause of two buildings burning.

Every building and fixture on Mr. Lehman's farm excepting the house was turned over. The barn, which is one of the largest in the country, was blown over and the electric storm which struck the town and was the cause of two buildings burning.

Two Lehman boys were in the farm yard when the cyclone came and began to run for shelter. One commenced to climb the fence and was lifted in the air and deposited in a field about three hundred feet away, being practically unhurt.

A hay rack was carried over three hundred feet and was torn beyond recognition.

On a neighboring farm occupied by Joe Lehman and owned by Mrs. J. M. Hall, of Edmonton, the granary was turned over until what few boards were hanging together rested in a field a quarter of a mile away.

These two places seem to be the only farms in the direct line of the storm and no damage seems to have been done to any other property. The storm came up from a south-westerly direction and is the first of cyclonic proportions ever known in this district.

Heart and Nerves SO BAD Would Faint Dead Away

These feelings of weakness, those faint and dizzy spells that come over people, from time to time, are warnings that must not go unheeded. They indicate an extremely weakened condition of the heart and a disordered state of the nerves.

before their case becomes hopeless, as they have an equal for restoring the heart and making the nerves firm and steady.

Mrs. C. Myrie, Vancouver, Alta., writes:—"My husband was bothered with heart and nerve trouble for over ten years, and at times, he was unable to faint dead away, and was very weak when he came to. I asked him to go and see the doctor, but he kept putting it off."

"I got afraid for him and went and bought a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and when I brought them home he did not want to take them as he thought they would not do any good. I told him there was no harm in trying them, and he was very glad he did not. He felt better after the first dose, and after taking four boxes he has never had a fainting spell since, and feels fine in every way."

THE KEEPER OF THE BEES

By GENE STRATTON PORTER

"I guess you're about all that's left to me, Jamie," said Margaret. "I guess you are my job. It's fair hell to stay at home, and it's fair hell to try to leave it. I don't if I can go to Molly. I guess if she wants to be with me, she will have to come home. And as for you, but I can't see your side, what is it that's hurting you?"

With Sent bravely Jamie told her. "About the time I came here I married a girl. A few days ago her baby was born at the Star of Mercy hospital and she was not strong enough to nurse it. All I have to show for her is the baby."

Margaret Cameron pushed him back and looked at him quickly. "Why, Jamie," she said, "Jamie, I can't understand that. Why didn't you bring her here to the garden? Why didn't you let me take care of her too? Maybe if her diet had been right and she had been cared for as a woman can care for a girl, maybe it wouldn't have happened."

"Maybe don't do any good now," said Jamie. "The circumstances were such that I couldn't bring her here. The point is that she is gone, and there is a splendid boy and his name is James Lewis MacFarlane."

"At the hospital? He's at the hospital?"

"No," said Jamie. "She'd told them before I told her that she wanted me to have him, that she wanted him named for me. They had him all ready and they put him in my arms and without knowing what I was going to do, I walked out with him."

Margaret Cameron rose.

"You have him over at your house?"

"Yes," said Jamie. "You're trying to take care of him yourself?"

Jamie shook his head.

"No, I couldn't do that," he said. "I'm too big and clumsy. I don't know enough. The little Scout was there and went to the telephone and had a conversation and half an hour later Mrs. Meredith called him and said that one more didn't bother her."

Margaret Cameron made a curious sound, a dry intake of breath which might have been a short laugh if she had not been too unhappy to laugh.

"No," she said, "one more doesn't bother her. I've heard about her. At the birth of her first child there was a charity baby and a little millionaire baby at the same hospital and both of them were starving, and for the length of time she was there, along with her own baby, she nursed the others and she kept them from dying. She was doing things that would put in a demand will be the thing that will tide me over. Go and get your baby, Jamie, and bring him to me."

Jamie arose and went to the telephone. He called Mrs. Meredith and asked her to have the baby brought to him. Mrs. Cameron had returned and, in only a short time a small brown car appeared down the street. Jamie stood at the gate and watched it come.

In an effort to spare Margaret Cameron he stretched his arms for the baby, but Mrs. Meredith was a good person. She had to deliver the baby herself. She had to spread out his wardrobe and explain how he had used the things. She showed Margaret's old-fashioned ways by putting into her arms a baby that was weeping no flannel, whose feet were bare and kicking, whose dress was no longer than the feet. It seemed to Margaret Cameron the only thing Mrs. Meredith had that had been done to old-fashioned babies was to watch that the little eyes were not covered. That strong lights did not penetrate. Margaret lifted her voice in protest.

"Where are his flannels?" she said and Mrs. Meredith spread a pair of expressive hands in a gesture that both Margaret and Jamie recognized immediately.

"There ain't going to be no flannels," she laughingly quoted.

Margaret sat and stared. She listened to what was said. She looked the baby over and then slowly shook her head.

"Jamie," she said, "if I take this child and try to take care of him in this way and he dies, are you going to hold it against me?"

"No," said Jamie, "I won't lay it up against you."

"Well," said Margaret, "I must say that this beats me. I'm sure he'll be killed. I'm sure he take cold and die of the croup. I thought babies and flannels were inseparable."

"Just cut off the 'in' and make it 'separable'."

Then she picked up the baby and held it tight to her and kissed it. The face and its hands and feet with its feet and hands it handed it to Margaret Cameron. Jamie escorted Mrs. Meredith and the little Scout to the car.

As he closed the door, the little Scout bowed forward and held his hand on Jamie's and lifted a pair of tips that had something to say. Jamie brought his car in range.

"May I tell Mother about that girl off the Santa Fe butlin' in on our garden?" came the whisper.

Jamie drew back and looked at the small person in surprise.

"Haven't you told her?" he inquired.

The little Scout shook a vigorous head.

"No, You said it might worry her, not to tell her and Dad came, but he is coming tonight."

"Since it's all over," said Jamie, "there's nothing to worry about. You didn't leave the lady a leg to stand on. You got her confession before three good witnesses, and it just happened that there were two more in the background that you did not know about."

Jamie went back to the house as the car pulled away with a laugh on his face, without realizing that Margaret Cameron would expect him to be in mourning. His Scotch honesty instantly asserted itself.

"Margaret," he said, "I am not sailing under any false colors with you. There are some things that I don't want to talk about, because I don't understand them well enough to make them plain to you. I saw the girl I married last night and I saw the kind of her before we were married, and I did not see her afterward until she was at the point of making her crossing. This baby bears my name and has been left to me, and I am going to do the best job I can in rearing him properly, but I am not in mourning for his mother, and you wouldn't expect me to exhibit any deep symptoms of grief, because I can't when I don't feel them."

Margaret Cameron stood still, looking at the baby.

"That kind of a tale doesn't sound like you, Jamie," she said, "but if I understand the province of a friend at all it consists largely in keeping one's mouth shut and doing the things that will be of most benefit."

As the days went by it seemed to Jamie that there never had been a greater blessing afforded a woman than the Stern baby was to Margaret Cameron.

Sometimes when he went he found her bathing the small person, or dressing him, or washing or ironing little garments. One day he realized suddenly that exactly the thing that Jamie had asked for had been given to her. Something alive, something that she could work for, something different, something that would appreciate what she did. So she ceased to feel guilty over the physical strength he was asking her to spend on the tiny baby and felt that the child might be the greatest boon that could come into her life. He had a difficult time the day he tried to talk finances concerning the baby.

At last she said to him: "Jamie, this baby's been such a blessing to me, loving him and caring for him has been a blessing in my brain, that I have no way in which to tell you what he has done for me. I could not take money for him."

"All right," said Jamie, and he walked out of the house and began the process of going over Margaret's grounds to discover what there was that he could do in the garden.

Presently Margaret realized that his visit was happening, and the arrangement suited her admirably. For a few days she had not cared whether her flowers lived or died. She had not cared whether her house were neat and orderly, or the food in place for the mocking birds or rose finches. Today she cared immensurably about all these things because very soon the little Jamie would be big enough to notice a pretty flower, to throw the crumbs to a bird, and always his health must be safeguarded by perfect cleanliness and sanitary conditions around him.

Chapter 20

It was midsummer in the garden; long, golden vacation days. The bees were happy. Immense swarms and swarms of bees were at work only down the sides of the garden, but well across the foot, and Jamie was beginning to feel that by the coming season some of them must be disposed of or he would have more than he could manage. The flowers were blooming in a mad riot of color. The trees were laden with very strongly was so nearly a well man that he was beginning to use his left hand without realizing that he was using it.

There began to be born in his breast the feeling that it was time for him to go out into the world, to break his hands of security and of peace in the garden, and hand up the men who were forming the Legion to which he should belong. He began to listen, on slow, sleepy Sabbath mornings, for the tolling of the church bells, and to wonder if there might be such a thing as a very reasonable distance as a Presbyterian church with a minister just near enough to Scotland to have a little bit of a loved burr in his voice. He began to feel that the time was coming very shortly when he was going to fare forth in search of these things.

He was thinking of all very strongly one morning when the hose he was handling had brought him to a petunia bed just across from the jacaranda tree and he stopped to flood the roots of the brilliant flowers. His sewing cars caught the rush of feet, a sham of haste, and there flashed into view the little Scout forcing forward toward him with both arms extended, a distorted face, and clothing fairly torn to ribbons. Jamie dropped the hose and whirled with arms outstretched. He caught on his breast the little quivering figure and eased down to the seat under the jacaranda tree and held the child tight—a twisting, shaking figure, physically unsteady, tears so big that they gushed and rolled in a torrent. All he could do was to gather up the little bundle and hold it together and wait. He began rubbing his cheeks over the small head, whispering, as best he could, words of consolation.

"Little Scout, dear Little Scout," he panted, "tell Jamie what has hurt you so? Oh, what has hurt you so? Little Scout, little partner!"

Then suddenly Jamie gathered the figure tighter in his arms and thrust his hand through the hair to a grimy cheek, and with all the intensity in his body he repeatedly kissed the little Scout.

"Sweetheart," he whispered, "darling little sweetheart, tell Jamie, tell Jamie what's the matter?"

And by and by, from the huddled bunch on his breast, there came a panted whisper: "Who told you?"

"Nobody told me anything," said Jamie. "You tell me! What is it? What has happened to you? Where have you been? If anybody's hurt you—"

"War rose in Jamie's red war flamed in his eyes. "Did any boy lay a finger on you?" he panted.

The little Scout moaned in negation.

"Who, then? What?" urged Jamie.

"I'm ripe for murder! Tell me where I'm to go, what I'm to do?"

There came a wheedling gasp: "My Scout"—another look of despair, and another panted gasp—"mutilated on me! They wanted to go off down the beach, away alone, and strip bare naked and swim—and I—"

"I couldn't," and they mutilated on me and nearly tore me in pieces."

"Do you mean asked Jamie, "that those little brutes pitched on to you and beat you?"

The little Scout warned in his arms. "I reckon I had it coming," panted the child. "I reckon I've beat them up often enough. But I was tired this morning. I was out of my grip on 'em. I couldn't handle 'em, and they got me."

"What happened?" asked Jamie, breathlessly.

A man came along, a man on horseback, and he reached down and picked me up on his horse and brought me along out of their reach until I said let me off here. Oh, Jamie, I'm killed!"

"Look here," said Jamie, harshly, his voice roughened with emotion. "Look here, darling! You got a young start because you didn't like what girls do, and you've been running with the boys until you have about as used yourself. And what have you got out of it?"

Jamie arose.

"You come on into the house with me," he said. "I'm going to clean you up and take you to your mother and she is going to put some decent clothes on you and we are going off by ourselves or today. We are going off some place you will like. We are going to do something you will want worse than anything in the world, I'll tell you right here and right now, we are going to do. We are going to get the finest little horse that ever stepped. We will go and buy him today!"

The little Scout slid from Jamie's outstretched hand was a mute invarm and stepped in front of him. Au

Canada Country
Without a Peer

"A country producing annually $1,500,000,000 worth of merchantable agricultural products from its 700,000 farms is a country without a peer, and just such a country is Canada," declared Hon. W. R. Mather, Canadian minister of agriculture, in a recent published statement. "Canada has a moderate and healthy climate, great farming opportunities for those in a position to take advantage of them, and insures to all who will work intelligently on her lands a comparatively sure return for their labors. During the past quarter of a century, Canada has increased her output of hard spring wheat by over 1000 per cent, and she now has attained the enviable distinction of being the largest exporter of wheat in the world. The production of live stock and live stock products, coarse grains, fruit, timber products, minerals, etc., has also increased with almost relative rapidity."

May Lose Deposit
And Be Elected

A Vegreville Observer reader has pointed out that under the transferable vote system a member can be elected and still lose his deposit. The act provides that the deposit is lost if a candidate does not get 20 per cent of the first choice votes. Now by way of illustration let us take as a constituency in which four candidates are running, with one to be elected. The candidates are those fine old-timers known as Tom, Dick, Harry and Jack. Tom gets 100 first choices; Dick gets 90; Harry gets 150; Jack gets 200; nobody is elected; the total first choice vote is 540 and 20 per cent of this is 108; therefore Tom and Dick lose their deposits first crack. On the second count, Dick's second choices are all given to Tom thus giving him 190 votes. Harry is then eliminated and his second choices are also all marked for Tom, giving him a total of 340. Tom is elected, but he has also lost his deposit, a most singular situation.

Can the wise boys explain how a candidate can be elected and still be out his $100 deposit? We admit that the illustration is not all likely to happen in actual practice, but it is possible. A perfect system such as the transferable vote is touted to be should provide for contingencies of this improbable nature. — Vegreville Observer.

Force Publishers to Take Mail Order Advt.

It has been the rule in Canada and the United States for publishers, especially the town and community publishers, to refuse to accept mail order advertising, no matter whether these publishers are given the support of their merchants generally or not. In the United States the Federal Trade Commission is considering steps to require newspapers to accept mail order advertising when offered, regardless of the attitude of the publisher on this subject. This is another step in an attempt to lay down the principle that the advertising columns of a newspaper are a public carrier and that discrimination regarding what advertising will be accepted is not to be left in the power of the publisher. The mail order houses are making it hard for the town merchant, but the information is gleaned from newspaper publishers' conventions in both Canada and the United States, that in cities, towns and communities where the local merchants are liberally used by the local merchants the mail order business is not as great. The advertising experts of mail order houses watch all newspapers closely and are quick to observe when local merchandising is not fully represented in that community. Efforts are at once made to get into the local papers and the direct-by-mail advertising is pushed into that section, with full force. If headway is made in the United States to force local publishers to accept mail order advertising, it will follow that Canadian mail order houses will advance the same arguments. It can be truly said that the local publishers have remained loyal, and will continue to do so, but in these days of severe business rivalry, when many newspapers are falling by the wayside, others being amalgamated and absorbed, it is necessary that legitimate business must be secured from whatever source available. — Renfrew Mercury.

Let Them Have A Holiday

Those who remain at home should remember that their friends who have gone to tent or cottage for rest and change will return with genuine feelings of gratitude and affection if they are allowed to have that rest undisturbed. How many a cottager has returned at the end of the season more tired than when he left for her "holidays" because almost daily arrivals of carloads of well meaning friends prevented her securing the rest she had so very much hoped to enjoy. Company, mostly for after noon tea, means more cooking for the hostess, and cottages are not usually equipped with electric stoves or other labor saving devices. There is always the dread, too, that visitors' children may land in the well, or off the dock, or, worse, hurt themselves with the too handy axe or otherwise come to grief while on the premises. It all means extra nerve strain for the tired housewife who is trying in these few weeks to get enough rest and refreshment to enable her to meet capably the thousand-fold demands of the coming winter season. Let her have that rest undisturbed. If you miss her very much write her a little note and tell her so. She'll appreciate that and if she wants to see you very badly she'll probably let you know and set a special day. Otherwise, think twice and then do as you would be done by.

Col. C. H. D. Ryder, C.B., C.I.E., D.S.O., chairman of the Air Survey Company of London, England, interviewed Premier Mackenzie King and the prime ministers of the various provinces with regard to finding out the prospects of surveying practically the whole of the Dominion by air. He also wishes to know about the possibility of combined federal and provincial action for these surveys.

On his return from a recent tour of inspection of the Company's Western Lines, Grant Hall, Vice-President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, stated that exports to the Orient in the form of grain, flour, dressed meats and motor cars were steadily increasing in volume and that trade with Australia had been considerably stimulated by the trade arrangements with that Dominion. Mr. Hall added that conditions were good in the West. The mining industry in British Columbia showed up well, while lumber shipments were heavier than last year.

All roads led to Windsor Station, Montreal, for three days prior to the opening of the tenth annual international Kiwanis convention, which opened on June 6. Not only was the C.P.R. station the gateway through which an army of Kiwanians passed into Montreal, but, every one of the delegates, their wives and friends, about 7,000 in all, congregated there as the station had been constituted registration headquarters of the convention. A force of 32 stenographers was specially engaged to handle the work.

ALBERTA RIVALS
CALIFORNIA NOW

By far and away one of the most truly wonderful exhibits ever seen in the west, or indeed in any part of the North American continent, is that of the Canadian Pacific demonstration farm at Brooks, which during the Calgary exhibition was displayed in the vast building.

In a nutshell it definitely and clearly establishes that everything grown in California, except oranges and lemons, can be produced in Alberta. Although it is yet a very considerable time, indeed, from harvest, already specimens of Concord grapes, Houghton gooseberries, Hyslop cranberries, Apala plums, which grow to the size of the ordinary prune, Cheery plums, Yellow Transcendent crabs, and other fruit, are seen in an astonishing degree of perfection. The Yellow Transcendents, for instance, are now quite as large as a golf ball.

Red currants, just gathered at the Brooks demonstration farm, are as large as marbles, and Early Snowball cauliflowers measure eight and one-half inches. Here are also to be seen wonderful head lettuce, and a large variety of potatoes. As a matter of fact, according to Don Bark, the superintendent of the farm, they have been digging potatoes for the past two weeks. These new tubers are fully matured. Turnips, parsnips, onions, beets and many other vegetables are displayed as large as many a gardener harvests in the fall, and many varieties of peas have already been grown to perfection.

The exhibit shows conclusively that the agricultural possibilities of Alberta are practically unlimited. An almost endless display of seeds are also shown, and although altogether there are more than 300 distinct exhibits, Don Bark stated very emphatically that they are only part of what can be, and will be, grown in Alberta in the future.

A particularly interesting feature of the exhibit is that everything displayed has been grown in the open.

No Wonder Canadians are Handsome

Canadian men and women owe their good looks and beauty to their country, says Pen Chung Fann, of Shanghai, who is known in Montreal as a graduate of Chinese universities, the son of a Mandarin, and just 26 years old. For two and a half years, under an arrangement between the Government of China and Canada, he has been making a study of the Canadian Pacific Railway System with the idea of acquiring practical knowledge that he hopes to apply to the railroad problems of his own country. He and several other young Chinese students arrived in Montreal in December 1923, and since his stay in Montreal, Mr. Fann has been employed in the railway in Windsor Street Station, Montreal. He has also been a student at McGill university, where he took an M.Sc. degree, and is at present working for the degree of M.A., which he hopes to receive in the Fall, before returning to China in October. Mr. Fann leaves the Canadian Pacific Railway Company at the end of this month and will travel through Canada during the summer. 22,500 KILLED IN U.S. AUTO
ACCIDENTS LAST YEAR

New York, July 3.—That automobile fatalities in the United States are on the increase is proved by a statement recently made by the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, showing that during 1925 approximately 22,500 more deaths were registered than during the preceding year.

Automobile fatalities, excluding collisions with street cars and railroad trains, increased from 176,000 in 1924 to 198,000 in 1925. Automobile grade crossing fatalities increased from 1,558 in 1924 to 1,734 in 1925.

The automobile death rate per 100,000 population has increased from 14.9 in 1923 to 15.7 in 1924, and to 17.3 in 1925. The increase, therefore, from 1923 to 1924 was five per cent, while the increase from 1924 to 1925 was nearly ten per cent. Automobile fatalities as a whole, therefore, not only increasing in number but the rate at which they are increasing is also going up.

PRESERVES MODEL OF THRESHING MACHINE
OPERATED BY HAND

In the early pioneer days of the Barrie settlement south of Beaver Lake, the settlers experienced great difficulty in threshing their crops.

To overcome this difficulty some of the men went to work and built a machine for that purpose. The men who chiefly planned and built it were John Johnson, H. P. Haugen and Hugh Mitchell, who did all the backsmith work. It was entirely an home-made product, even the lumber being whipsawed.

This machine, which became known as the "Beaver Lake Chief," was run by hand power, taking four to six good men to turn it. It was used during the winters of 1896-97.

The present model, made by P. Haugen, of the Tofield garage, a son of one of the original makers, is a correct copy of the original, and it will help to show the resourcefulness and skill of the early settlers.—Tofield Mercury.

SHOOTS HIMSELF ON FRIEND'S FARM

Canmore, July 12.—Using a shotgun placed at his right temple, Lars Lien, 40 years of age, committed suicide on the farm of Peter Aurness, living between Edberg and New Norway.

Lien was a single man who came from Washington or Oregon some ten years ago. He had spent Tuesday evening at the Aurness home, and after helping with the Wednesday morning milking disappeared. After a search had been made his body was found late in the day in some bush 80 yards from the house. No motive for the act is known, and it is thought that his mind had become unbalanced.

Ninety Per Cent Water

He was playing tennis strenuously (in a ladder game) and she said to him, "I see you are taking sufficient exercise to reduce considerably in weight."

"Yes," he replied, "if perspiring will do it."

She replied: "Well, you know every turnip is made up of ninety per cent water."

RESORT ON SHORES OF PIGEON LAKE HAS RAPID GROWTH

(From Edmonton Journal)

Twelve years ago a few tents on the shore of Pigeon Lake, Alberta, bespoke the camping season; today, a row of sixty or more cottages proclaim the same shore as Ma-Meo Beach. Our first jump to the lake was in an old fashioned democrat, driven by a team of big grey horses. What luggage we could not store in the vehicle with us, went on a hayrack. Now we sail forth to Ma-Meo Beach in motor cars, and our luggage goes on a motor truck.

When I think of Pigeon Lake I instantly behold in retrospect this rustic camping ground, developed into a popular summer resort. This watering place lies along the east shore of a magnificent lake, whose shimmering iridescent waters lay originally in the heart of the primeval forest, with its winding network of paths, which were trodden only by wild beasts, or the stealthy foot of the native red man. When the Canadian Pacific railway introduced its puffing engines, and rolled through these wilds, as a forerunner of civilization, a town was started less than thirty miles east of this beautiful expanse of water, and forty miles north of this town (now the city of Wetaskiwin), stood the Hudson's Bay trading post, which is now the tiny city of Edmonstone.

Ten years ago, I decided to go along with some friends, to have an outing at this lake.

Accordingly, three tents were ordered, two to be used for sleeping apartments, and the third for a living room. A hay rack was secured, too. Loaded—well, I should say so—two bags of potatoes, a 50 pound sack of flour, and other ration in proportion were loaded in, besides empty bed ticks to be filled with straw, and dishes of all shapes and sizes.

Arriving at the lake, we set up our tents, under towering spruce trees. After getting settled, there remained no duties to perform, except to prepare meals.

"Where is that big red pot we were to put in," inquired Jack. No one spoke for an instant; then someone shouted, "Hey, there, look at it! It's gone." We looked just in time to see a bound belonging to an Indian, running off with the most, which I had packed away in the kettle. Scanning the pot, we proceeded to fill it with vegetables we had packed; potatoes, carrots, onions and cabbage were all boiled together, the kettle being hung over a crackling fire. Soon a meal was ready, and eaten with relish as only campers can eat.

As it was now 11, I was walking along the beach one morning, admiring the green spruce trees and the wonderful prismatic shades on the water, when suddenly I heard a voice which startled me. "Good morning, Miss," said a young man, who was lying under a tree, reading a book in the shade of the low spreading branches. Seeing that I was somewhat embarrassed he explained "You see, we fellows have our tent just a stone's throw from your camping ground, so I thought we might as well be friends."

Another summer when we went out the Indians were having a big dance, and a pow-wow. There is what white people term a park, back a distance from the lake, where these pow-wows formerly were held, and which is still visited by sightseers. This consists of an open space, the Indians having cut down the trees, the sides of which could have a wide circle for their dance. In the middle of the space stands an image made of boughs, twigs and leaves, dressed up to represent a man; he has generally been in a different uniform every year, but the next fellow is in future men, as those tedious dances have been discarded. We thoroughly enjoyed the sight on the day we went over to watch the red men dance.

The many colored shawls and skirts, bright head dresses, and gaudy sashes of the square headed moccasins and other gay attire, all served to hold our interest, as the entire affair was novel to us. The sky took on an ominous appearance, and the cry went forth, "Here your tent!" The storm was on its march, and it very quickly on these interior lakes, Pigeon Lake is about fourteen miles long and eight miles across, one can view the storm coming away over the water and the foam crested waves soon lash the shores. The wind roared among the trees, the sides of our tents flapped, then a blaze. The wind had roused the embers of our camp fire, and a forest devastation seemed inevitable; the wind veered and they stayed the fire.

Then hallooed out and rattled our tents, but the fire was out of control; the Indians still danced, danced and were happy. These red natives are a very peaceable tribe and quite civilized; be it to their credit, they never molested the campers, nor in any way interfered with their activities.

The past has left its imprint, the present is with us, and time wears changes. Instead of tents, there are, as I said at the outset, about sixty cottages at Ma-Meo Beach. The first ones were mere shacks, but have been remodelled, and nice commodious ones built. The beach now presents, a gala and jaunty appearance, with its pretentious cottages, having wide screened verandas, flags floating, and everybody in holiday attire. Aquatic sports are indulged in as the cottages are mostly all good swimmers, and this may be used at the usual long distance rates.

OVER QUARTER MILLION AMERICANS ON PRAIRIES

With completion of the census now proceeding in the three prairie provinces, it is estimated that it will show that there are over 250,000 American residents in them, the Regina Post states. According to the Dominion census taken in 1921, these three provinces had a population of 1,555,022, of whom 233,149 gave the United States as their birthplace. Official records show that since then 43,960 Americans have taken up residence between Winnipeg and the Rocky mountains. The taking of the census of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta during the first ten days of June has required the services of 2500 enumerators. It is estimated that they have covered an area of 755,717 square miles, which is equal in size to the combined area of ten of the largest states of the union. Though the census of all Canada is taken only every ten years, a special act of the Canadian parliament requires a census of the prairie provinces to be taken every five years. This year's census included an appraisal of the 100,000,000 acres of farm lands awaiting settlement in these three provinces, which are now valued on an average of $15 to $25 an acre.

JUDGE LEES RULES IN HORSE CASES

In two horse cases Judge Lees ruled that at an auction sale, a horse which broke its neck there had and passed into the custody of the buyer, though it had been knocked down to him, and the buyer was not responsible for the amount at which it was sold to him. In the second case, he ruled that though the seller owned the horse and passed it to a defendant under a lien note, the horse was in their possession when it died, and they were liable.

entitled the holder of such permit to camping privileges for one summer. In the spring of 1923 the federal government offered the Indians a certain sum of money for part of the shore property; the Indians voted on the proposition and decided to sell. Then the government had the beach surveyed for a stretch of about a mile into the lake. The Indians, however, had 54 feet on the water front, and they had built a row of small, but prettily built cottages along the lake, where their houses rested and several other lots were sold; there are still some lovely lots to be sold. The record was then named Ma-Meo Beach, which being the Indian name for the lake, it was his fair to outbid other summer resorts which have been much longer on the map.

Our best fun was at the dances, where the most of the cottagers congregate in response to an invitation broadcast at each dance by a boy in a loud number of such, who give the announcement "Dance time, tonight at 8 o'clock." This manner of summoning the clans, reminds one of the calling of the crusaders to battle. We never wait until it is dark to light our bonfires, because the July days are so long in Alberta; so we start them at about 9 p.m. Sometimes the hostess brings out cushions and chairs for us to sit on, but an one is blessed with too much furniture out there, so we generally arrange ourselves on the sand for the fete.

Then a merry time is spent in singing, sometimes accompanied by a gramophone or a ukulele, and often the voices float over the moonlit water, accompanied only by the soft rippling of the quiet, peaceful lake. There is a transforming quality about a calm, serene, large body of water, lighted up by the pale moon, when all nature sleeps, which produces a like restful serenity in ourselves. What a pleasure it is to see a happy, carefree throng around a bonfire, where the flames shoot up into the air, giving warmth and cheer to all. A favorite sport at the gatherings is to toast marshmallows or corn. One evening our hostess cooked a bonfire of corn on the cob, then seasoned it with butter, pepper and salt before passing it around on large platters; it was so savory and appetizing that the bonfire soon disappeared. At other times, candy and peanuts are served to the guests and occasionally a cup of hot coffee. About 11 p.m. all sanitar home after a parting salute of "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Swimming parties have become quite popular; a good swim with a brisk rubdown after makes the blood tingle with life. Then a cup of hot tea or coffee, gives the finishing touch. The large dance pavilion is quite an attraction for old and young, and a good orchestra now provides music to which we trip the light fantastic.

There is a sport ground, just behind the cottages, which at times is quite an interesting spot; here, animated games of baseball and other amusements are carried on. Sometimes dozens of campers ranging from the heavy wagons to the most modern automobiles, are parked here, these grounds. A boat ferry helps out the recreative part also, as rowboats can be rented by the day, or by the hour, at a nominal rate.

One deep well has been bored, and it is expected that another will be in operation before the season ends. So we enjoy ourselves at Ma-Meo Beach? Well, come and try it for yourselves, and I am quite sure you will not be disappointed.

There is a tri-weekly postal service; also a telephone is installed in a store, and this may be used at the usual long distance rates.

VETERAN DELIVERY PAIR
The Dominion Express company at Lacombe have a delivery combination which for longevity is hard to beat in the Dominion of Canada, especially in combined ages of the driver and the horse who make the rounds four or five times a day to the different business houses. J. Jackson, father of C. W. Jackson, C.P.R. agent in Lacombe, and R. O. Jackson of Edmonton, is the pioneer of the delivery system. He has just turned his 75th birthday and his faithful old dobbie John is 28, making their total ages 103, and both are hearty and going strong every day. Both Mr. Jackson and his steed are both companions. Both horse and driver have been together for over 20 years and are familiar figures on the streets of Lacombe.

Mr. Jackson is proud of the record old John made on the dirt tracks when in his prime, stepping at 2:20 in the harness class. He is a standard bred and shows some wonderful horse sense at times. If their duties are not over by the time the whistle blows the old horse has been known to go to his stable without his driver, and is still keen for a short burst of speed in spite of his age.

His ribbons, dress goods, coats and hats would scare a belfry full of bats, and cobwebs frame his door. Bill thinks to advertise would cost just twice as much as he has lost in waiting for a buyer.

But Henry Dash across the way, knows advertising's sure to pay — it draws crowds like a fire. So to our office he come down, for the best sales service in the town, announcing special offers. He gives his trade a chance to save; his profits he can closely shave — the volume fills his coffers.

Triumph for Telephones

For the first time in Canadian election history, all the results of the recent provincial election in Alberta were handled by telephone, instead of by telegraph, and this result was a triumph for the Alberta government telephone department. In less than three hours after the close of the polls, the result of the first count in all of the 2,450 polls in the province, including the north country, were known, with the exception of a few from the most isolated polls, the first choices having been tabulated in every constituency.

Nearly 300 people in a many phone exchanges in the province were engaged in the work of collecting the returns. One hundred and eighty-five thousand miles of rural and long distance wire carried the news, covering the province with a vast network of telephone communication. Special telephone coupling operators were placed in the daily newspaper offices in Edmonton, Calgary and Lethbridge five at Edmonton handling 26 ridings, four at Calgary handling 16 ridings, and two at Lethbridge handling six ridings. The returns were handled to the newspapers as soon as received, and conveyed over Canadian Press wires. In five constituencies the entire work of compiling all returns were handled by the telephone department.

Homesteads Taken Up

A total of 179 homesteads were taken up in northern Alberta in June according to registrations at the Dominion Land Office in Edmonton.

PRESERVING AND STORAGE OF EGGS

The economical housewife will take advantage of the season of heavy production and consequently low priced eggs to put by a supply of eggs for culinary purposes for use during the season of high prices.

For this purpose there are a number of preservatives that are satisfactory, but the two outstanding ones are "waterglass" and "lime water."

Waterglass is an excellent preservative but it does a great deal of its popularity to the fact that it can be readily secured at any grocery store in convenient form.

Lime water is a much cheaper preservative and experiments carried on by the experimental farms have shown it to equal, if not superior, to waterglass. For a number of years the experimental farm at Cap Regie has been conducting tests in the storing of eggs. Some of the eggs are shipped to the central farm each season for examination, and it is found that those preserved in lime water are the best.

When eggs are to be held in a commercial way, cold storage is essential. The guaranteeing process is one that is becoming increasingly popular. For a number of years the central experimental farm has been carrying on tests with this process and the results obtained warrant its recommendation to commercial producers.

CAR REPAIRS

I have had my auto mended, had its valves and doods ground, and to day it's running splendid, with no hard or jarring sound; but my heart is in a panic, and my roll is abominable, for the heavenly built mechanic touched me for my bottom pound. On the sun is shining brightly on the meadow and the sea, and the birds are singing brightly, but they bring no joy to me; there is sorrow in my gizzard, for the greasy auto wizard, knowing cars form A to Z, and, stripping me of my final V. Oh, he fixed the carburetor and he made the starter start, and he rubbed his greasy sweater o'er the cushions, rich and smart, all the busted parts I showed him, and stood around to gaud him; then he told me what I owed him, and I had a broken heart. I had planned to save some money for the winter years ahead, so in age I might have honey and molasses for my bread; but I see 'twill keep me busy paying up that wizard wizz, who repaired my old tin lizzie—keep me digging till I'm dead. Oh I wonder what the wizards do with all the coin they make; do they throw it to the lizards? Do they dump it in the lake? Do they live in regal splendor on the wad of legal tender, that, for fixing my old fender, from my pocketbook they take—Walt Mason.

PUBLICITY

Mary had a little lamb.
You do not look surprised;
Of course you don't, for Mary has Been widely advertised.
And something you may learn from this.

If you are not a chm.
You can be just as widely known.
As Mary and her lamb.
Your name can be a household word
And you be known so well,
That folks will confuse you
The little you have to sell.
And when you once have got yourself
Into the clearing rays
Of the sunlight of publicity,
You bet your life it pays.

Here and There

Tremendously rapid development of forest and water power resources of the Province of Quebec is indicated in the forecast of revenue totaling $2,000,000 from these sources for the current year. Last year the same resources produced a revenue of nearly $4,500,000.

Sixty men from the training camps in Brandon and London, England, have been accepted by the Canadian Government and sailed on the "Empress of France" at the end of June. They proceeded to Winnipeg after landing at Quebec and will be placed on specially selected farms.

Saskatchewan exported last year 77.4 per cent. of its total production of creamy butter, according to a statement made by the Provincial Dairy Commissioner. The increase in production in 1925 over that of 1924 had amounted to 125.8 per cent, the output last year totalling 15,946,233 pounds.

Close on one hundred pilgrims from St. Paul and Minneapolis passed through Montreal recently on their way to the famous shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre, the world famous Catholic shrine. They were the advance guard of the great army of pilgrims that visit the shrine every year. While stopping off in Montreal they visited the St. Joseph Oratory in that city, also well-known as a shrine.

Hundreds of students and co-eds from Canadian and American universities have been passing through Montreal recently to board ships for Europe in connection with the Overseas Collegiate Tours that have grown increasingly popular of late years. Many of these collegians travel by Canadian Pacific boats, the "Empress of France" on a recent trip carrying over 250 of them.

Clad in gorgeous scarlet tunics, plentifully decorated with gold braid, five members of the world famous Coldstream Guards Band, of London, reached Quebec recently on the Canadian Pacific liner "Montcalm" on their third visit to Canada, having been here in 1904 and again in 1911. Under the command of Lieutenant R. G. Evans they will play at Brandon, Calgary, Edmonton, Saskatoon, Regina, Vancouver and the Toronto Exhibition.

The electrification of the main line of the Imperial Japanese Government Railway system from Tokyo to Shimonoeki, 750 miles, has been long projected, and recently the 45-mile section between Tokio and Odawara has had experimental trains drawn by electric locomotives run twice a day between these points. Owing to the great expense involved it is feared it will be many years before the entire main line can be electrified.

Founded 92 years ago in gardens on the site of which the Canadian Pacific Railway Windsor Street Station in Montreal now stands, the St. Jean Baptiste Society of that city celebrated that event on June 24th last by having a memorial tablet affixed to the walls of the station. The tablet was the gift of Victor Morin, former president-general of the society, who was present and unveiled it.

Negotiations have been completed for the erection, and work will shortly commence, upon a terminal warehouse and cold storage plant, to cost about five million dollars and to be built in Montreal. It is stated that it will be constructed within ten months from the end of June, will be ten stories in height and will have a total space of 600,000 square feet, of which one-third will be for cold storage. The plant will be built by the Montreal Rail and Harbor Terminals, Limited, and cost will be financed by Montreal Bankers' Corporation of Toronto.

THERE is a fresh unfolding of the wonders of nature in the new scenic area opened up by the Lake Louise-Field Highway through the mountains. The glories of the Yoho National Park in British Columbia, the Yoho Valley and Emerald Lake are now accessible to the motor world. This latest achievement is the completion of a motor highway across the famous Kicking Horse Pass in the central Rockies.

From Lake Louise, the gem of the Rockies, the road proceeds westward along the side of Cathedral Narrows. Down the river valley, the new road connects with the existing motor road which reaches eight miles up the Yoho Valley to Takakaw Falls. The euphonious Indian name, meaning, "It is wonderful," well describes the beauties of the ribbon of water, with a fall of 200 feet, in clouds of foam. Of exquisite coloring, lies placid under the protection of Mounts Wapta, Burgess and President, and affords fine fishing.

At Field, the natural bridge is one of the points of interest. A road is under construction from this point to the western boundary of Yoho park. Then it will be linked up with a highway now being built from Golden.

above, the opening to the silver-lead mine, which is reached from the flats, by a winding trail. This mine, opened in 1885, is unique in its operation and in its situation, on the side of a grim mountain. It is worth the effort of a trip up the incline and offers fine opportunity for the amateur climber.

These roads will give the motorist a scenic loop, probably without parallel in the world, which will include the finest scenery in the Rockies. From the prairies, by way of Banff and Lake Louise, down to Field and Golden, the road turns south by way of the Columbia, to Windermere valley. Through the western gateway to the Banff-Windermere road, the return to Banff and on to the Prairies, is made.

The Banff-Windermere highway is already connected on the west, by the Columbia River road, with the 4800 loop, known as the Grand Circle tour, which stretches down the Pacific coast to southern California and returns by way of the Arizona, Utah, Wyoming and Montana. The whole highway touches, throughout its length, ten national parks in the United States and Canada. The beauties of the Canadian section, so recently opened to the world, are rich in promise for the motorist.

LIGHTNING STRUCK CHIMNEY

On Saturday night, during the thunder storm, lightning struck the chimney on Mr. T. Aikens' house, scattering the bricks a couple of hundred yards in all directions. The current traversed the interior of the house, acting in a very freakish manner, twisting the stove pipes, splintering the posts, and knocking out the stones in the basement. The marvel is that no one was injured and no fire started.

The Junior U.F.A. held a regular meeting Friday evening in the school. Lyle Marr gave a report of the social activities of the recent young people's conference held in Edmonton. Harry Lind gave a splendid report of the business part of the conference. Following the close of the meeting, Mr. Taylor of the department of agriculture, entertained a large audience with a lecture and moving pictures on eradication of weeds. This was followed by a comic picture which was enjoyed by all, especially the children. The regular U.F.A. meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Leader on Saturday evening. Owing to the severe electrical storm the attendance was just moderate. However, considerable business was transacted, after which an enjoyable social hour was spent with the ladies, who supplied the usual bounteous lunch. The next meeting will be held on the second Friday in August at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hoskins.

The Social Club have decided not to hold a picnic this year, but will stage some form of entertainment in the early fall.

Jimmie Hoskins is spending exhibition week with his grand in Edmonton. George Hein motored to Edmonton on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Marr were business visitors to Edmonton Saturday. George Hein motored to Edmonton on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Pryor and family, of Carleton Place, Ont., are in town for a vacation with Mrs. E. R. Hoskins, left Sunday for Alberta Beach, where they will spend the next couple of weeks.

Here and There

S. Janowski and B. Stanhauser, the former Polish immigration delegate and the latter a delegate from the Polish Minister of Agriculture, are in Canada for a six-week study of farming conditions in western sections of the Dominion. They will also look into the distribution of work among the Polish colonies in Canada.

Four fishermen from the United States went fishing on the Gains River, New Brunswick, for 13 days recently, and caught 340 fish. State Senator Bradford, of Indiana, caught a 43-inch salmon weighing 27 pounds. Others in the party were: Fred N. Peet, Dr. E. R. Zimmerman, and D. H. Faxon. Only barbel hooks were used so that no fish were either killed or injured.

The second largest outdoor swimming pool in Canada has been opened at Lake Louise on the Terrace between the dining room of the Chateau and the Lake. The new pool is 100 feet long and 40 feet wide. It is surrounded by tall concrete columns between which there are gigantic sheets of plate glass, providing a wind break against cool breezes.

Approximately 120,000 live fish, fresh from American hatcheries, passed through Dominion Express Yards, Windsor Station, Montreal, recently, on their way to Beauchaine, Quebec. They will be used to stock private lakes in northern Quebec owned by wealthy citizens of the U.S.A., who prefer the virgin hills and forests of Canada to the densely populated summer resorts of their own country.

Norman E. Wilkinson, London, England, inventor of camouflage paintings which was used extensively during the late war, arrived in Canada on the Canadian Pacific liner "Montcalm" with his wife recently, for a tour of the Dominion. Sir Clifford Sifton, prominent Torontonian, and Sir Stephen Prunton, M.L.M.E., famous mineral geologist, also arrived on the same vessel.

THE HERITAGE

No matter what my birth may be,
No matter where my lot is cast,
I am the heir in equity
Of all the precious Past.
The art, the science, and the lore
Of all the ages long since dust.
The wisdom of the world in store,
Are mine, all mine, in the event
The beauty of the living earth.
The power of the golden sun.
The Present, whatsoever my birth,
I share with everyone.
The owner of the working day;
Mine are the minutes as they fly
To save or throw away.
And mine the future to bequeath
Unto the generations new;
I help to shape it with my breath,
Mine as I think or do.
Present and Past my heritage,
The future laid in my control—
No matter what my name or age,
I am a Master-Soul!

Ancient and Modern Meet in Rockies

Upper—Leather spring coach used to travel in Rockies, before the motor car age.
Lower Left—Modern sight-seeing car of today.
Lower Right—Motor car of 1902, used in the Canadian Rockies.

As the evening shadows began to lengthen across the Bow Valley in the Canadian Rockies on the last day of May, a diminutive time-worn, rust-bitten, two cylinder motor car of 1902 vintage chugged through the portals of the Rockies into Banff, there to join the throng of motor cars on Banff Avenue and unwittingly form a historic pageant indicating the developments in motor transportation during twenty-four years.

As it happens at such times, the shades of the past arise to refresh the memories of old-timers and bring forth reminiscences indicating the progress made within recent years. And so with the shades of the past evoked by one of the first "horseless carriages," mingling with its glittering brothers of the modern age.

When it too glittered with newness the mountain valleys knew not the odor of gasoline and the ordered roar of the exhaust, the old-timer chuckled said. No fine pavements such as at present grace the streets of the famous mountain resort, smothered out the irregularities. The dirt surface of Banff Avenue knew only pedestrian, saddle and pack-poles, and the iron tired wheels of the lumbering leather spring coach, used as the first sight-seeing vehicle in the Rockies.

In 1910, the Canadian Government opened the park gates to motor travel. In 1916, the motor sight-seeing equipment, used to carry passengers by motor through the Rockies from the Banff Springs Hotel to the chain of other Canadian Pacific railway hotels and bungalow camps, numbered a hundred modern motor cars and sight-seeing busses. In 1926, the system carried 220,000 passengers a total of approximately a million miles in three of Canada's mountain national parks. Thirty-six thousand motor cars, carrying 126,000 holidayers, passed through the gates of the Kootenay and Banff National Parks during the same season.

On June 16th, the new Lake Louise to Field Highway was opened to the motorist, uniting the three national parks by motor road and increasing the grand total of modern highway in the mountains to approximately 230 miles. But when the diminutive motor vehicle was the latest creation in automobiles, the mileage of roads in the mountains could be counted on the fingers of both hands.

The day following its arrival in Banff, it, Stacey, Kato, Washington, filled the gas tank of the 1902 car and set out over the Banff-Windermere Highway enroute for home. He is driving the car from Edmonton, Alberta, where it recently won the first prize in the light car class of the old car contest conducted by the Edmonton Journal.

In crossing the two summits on the highway, a modern car was called into action to aid the ancient vehicle over the top. By afternoon it reached Radium Bungalow Camp at the south end of Kootenay National Park, where the owner called it a day after covering ninety miles.

WOLF — MORSE

At 11 a.m. on Sunday, July 11th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ira I. Benham, Sunnybrook, a quiet but pretty wedding took place when Lida Mae, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Morse became the bride of Thomas Ordle, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Wolf.

The happy couple took their places beneath a bower of spruce, bunting and flowers. They were attended by Miss Annie Mosen and Mr. Alexander Lepine. Elder Ira Benham officiated. Little Donnell Benham, niece of the groom, acted as ring bearer, carrying the ring on a blue and gold cushion. After the ceremony a company of twenty relatives and friends sat down to the wedding dinner. On the table a color scheme of pink and white was carried out with white ribbon and peonies.

The happy couple are well known in Millet and the surrounding district. Their many friends join in extending them the heartiest congratulations and best wishes for their future prosperity.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Kent left last week for holidays, going to Calgary for a few days, and then on to Banff where they will spend a few weeks.

Last Sunday saw the largest crowd of the season at Town Pigeon Lake. The water was warm and the ice cream was cold and everybody enjoyed the lounging on the beach.

What might have been a serious fire occurred on Saturday night when the Wellington Cafe was struck by lightning. The current passing along the electric light wires scorched the wall paper. Fortunately it did not burst into flame before being detected.

On Thursday afternoon, July 8, J. C. Wagner, Herman Grapentine, Fred Phynon and Fred Thompson, representing the local I.O.O.F. lodge, motored to Donald to take part in the opening ceremonies of the new lodge in that town. They report a fine trip and an excellent time.

GOLDEN WEDDING CELEBRATION IS HELD AT STROME

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Scheeler are among the few couples in this town who have had the pleasure of celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding. Only a few couples are blessed with such a long span of life. In most cases one or the other is called away before the half century of partnership has arrived.

A family reunion was held at their home on July 4, as this is the anniversary date, and a public reception was held in the Memorial hall on Monday evening. Among those in attendance was Mrs. J. B. Schreffels of Wetaski-win, sister of the bride and groom.

At midday a sumptuous dinner was served at which the bride cut the cake. The afternoon was spent in various kinds of entertainment for young and old. Among the various gifts received was a radio set from the children.

On Monday evening the public reception, which was in the form of a dinner, was attended by a number of friends from far and near. No larger attendance has ever been at any event in the hall. Dancing was indulged in until about 11 o'clock, when Jas.
Gordon, president of the Strome Old Timers association, stepped to the platform and called the gathering to order. He stated he had the pleasure of representing the old timers and extended to Mr. and Mrs. Scheeler the best wishes of every old timer of the district. He said that not only the old timers but the young as well were joined in congratulations. Mr. and Mrs. Scheeler had been the very best of citizens of the community and Mr. Gordon said some things about the family history. The speaker stressed the community's appreciation of the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Scheeler as citizens, and wished them many more years of happiness together. Mr. Gordon, in behalf of the Old Timers association, presented Mr. Scheeler with a pair of gold link cuff buttons and
Mrs. Scheeler with a gold bar pin.
Before a response could be given the singing "For They are Jolly Good Fellows," began.—Strome Despatch.

WICKLAND—At Crooked Lake, on the 3rd inst., to Mr. and Mrs. R. W.
Wickland, a daughter.
